Trainee Health & Safety Consultant

SALARY Up to £32,500

CARNEY
CONSULTANCY

Carney Consultancy Ltd are looking to recruit a new trainee H&S consultant to their growing team. We are looking for a candidate with a keen interest in construction Health and Safety. The ideal candidate would ideally already have the NEBOSH general & / or construction certificate, or be working towards this qualification. We will then if the selected candidate is in agreement look to support the chosen candidate through the funding and studying of the NEBOSH Diploma.

The ideal candidate needs to have construction experience. The role will initially involve undertaking supervised construction site H&S inspections, accident investigations, face fit testing, preparing RAMS, tool box talks, construction phase plans. To ensure the candidate had a good all round knowledge of Health & safety in our field. Then the selected candidate would ideally be trained more specifically in other areas of health and safety that suits the candidates skills and the companies requirements.

The role will evolve into other areas of work as the selected candidate grows in experience and competence.

This position could suit someone with many years of construction experience wanting to change careers or someone with only a few years construction experience as all necessary training and guidance will be provided by our existing experience and competent team.
